

Character Name

Milo Arden

Age

34 years old

Role

Restorer of rare books and handwritten archives

Appearance

Milo is of average height, with wavy black hair, grey eyes, and ink stains that never fully leave his fingers. He usually wears simple dark clothes and round glasses.

Personality

Patient, discreet, thoughtful, and quietly humorous. He prefers listening before speaking and rarely reacts impulsively.

Goals

To restore a damaged collection of journals before their contents are permanently lost.

Motivations

He believes forgotten stories still matter and wants to preserve the work of people who were never recognized.

Fears

Failing to protect the collection, losing his eyesight, and discovering that some memories were erased intentionally.

Strengths

Careful, observant, disciplined, reliable, and skilled at solving delicate problems.

Weaknesses

Overly cautious, emotionally distant, perfectionistic, and slow to trust others.

Relationships

- Lena: a photographer who documents his restoration work.
- Tomas: his former teacher and current mentor.
- Elise: his younger sister, who wants him to leave the archive and live more freely.
- The Foundation Board: the group funding the restoration project.

Backstory

Milo grew up above a small second-hand bookstore owned by his grandparents. He learned to repair damaged books as a teenager and later trained in archival restoration. Years later, he was hired to recover a collection of journals found in an abandoned country house.

Character Arc

Milo begins the story focused only on preserving the past. Over time, he learns that protecting old stories should not prevent him from creating a life of his own.

Notes

- Collects old bookmarks.
- Drinks black coffee.
- Keeps a notebook of unusual handwriting styles.
- Avoids using pens near finished restorations.
